New Orleans, La., December 12.—Cotton futures upened steady at a decline of 1473 points on poor cubles. The close was very steady at a net advance of $641 points. Shorts were still buyers to realize profits, which prevented the market from making a full response to the decline in Liverpool. The weather map showed considerable rain in the cotton region, threely causing feat that picking was being interfered with. This helped the market to some extent. Straddle traders bought here against water in Liverpool. Soon after the call prices were 192 points over yesterday's close. Ring scaipers put out short cotton on this small advance, and at the end of the first half advance, and at the end of the first half hour of business prices were 2 points under yesterday's finals. The market became very quiet around the middle of the morning, but prices were steadly held up. Shorts were not aggressive. Telegrams from parts of the Eastern belt said that many tarmers were not aggressive. Telegrams from parts of the Eastern belt said that many tarmers were not aggressive. Telegrams from parts of the Eastern belt said that many tarmers were plowing their cotton under rather than pick it, and this seemed to cause nervousness on the benr side. Cable messages from Manchester told of a good business in the cloth market. This also helped the market in the afternoon session the market was quiet, but very steady. There was little for sale around the rius, and at 2 oclock prices were $640 points over yesterday's close. For business in a community like this! To start with, there is plenty of money here. Taken as a whole, the people are well off, they are conservative and loyal. In speaking of his bank, a man refers to it as HIS bank, and we like that spirit.

What we wish is to get as many good people as possible, when speaking of this Company, is to call it THEIR Trust Company.

We cordially invite the reader to become one of
